

Dementia Roadmap

Helping primary care to support people with dementia

Dementia Roadmap subscription package

Thank you for registering your interest in developing a Dementia Roadmap for your locality. This briefing provides information about the Dementia Roadmap subscription package, what we offer, what you need to contribute and suggests activities to consider in preparation for the development.

About the Dementia Roadmap

The Dementia Roadmap <http://dementiaroadmap.info> is a web based platform that provides high quality information about the dementia journey alongside local information about services, support groups and care pathways to assist primary care staff to more effectively support people with dementia and cognitive impairment, their families and carers.

The platform supports the creation of local Dementia Roadmaps pre-populated with a wide range of nationally relevant resources and groups, organised across the main topics reflecting the dementia journey. Following installation and introductory training local editors populate their roadmap with resources and groups that are relevant to their locality.

Cited in the Prime Minister's Challenge on Dementia 2020, the Dementia Roadmap supports better provision of post diagnosis support.

The Dementia Roadmap has been developed in a partnership between the Royal College of General Practitioners and the Department of Health. It is hosted by Dementia Pathfinders Community Interest Company (CIC).

Installation, subscription and invoicing

New Dementia Roadmap subscribers pay a one-off installation cost of £750 plus an annual subscription cost of £750. Please note that the installation charge will be increased to £900 with effect from 1st April 2018. We can offer new subscribers installation for the lower price if an order is confirmed before 1st April 2018.

- A user-friendly content management system, enabling you to add information about locally relevant resources and groups

The Dementia Roadmap team will create your local Dementia Roadmap and populate it with a wide range of high quality, expert-curated information about nationally relevant resources and groups, organised across a set of topics that reflect the dementia journey. Examples of this could be information about factsheets, reports and guidance published by trusted sources, such as the Alzheimer's Society, the Care Quality Commission, The King's Fund, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence, NHS England, the Royal College of General Practitioners and the Social Care Institute for Excellence.

We will provide introductory training for your local editorial team to ensure that they are able to add, edit and manage content on your Dementia. This will be delivered remotely via a web meeting. We will also provide access to an online learning environment containing step-by-step guides and tutorials that can be printed for offline use.

The Dementia Roadmap team will create a bespoke visitor analytics dashboard containing detailed statistics about visitor use of your Dementia Roadmap. This profiles a range of metrics, including: user and page view timelines; popular pages, downloads and clicks to external sites; sessions by user type and device; and top traffic referral sources and social media referral sources. This will allow you to analyse how your local population is using your Dementia Roadmap.

We will also provide you with a range of marketing materials to help you promote your Hub to your local stakeholders and those that will benefit from using it.

What you need to contribute

We encourage you to nominate a lead person to manage your work to develop a local Dementia Roadmap. For example, this could be a Commissioning Manager with a responsibility for dementia within a Clinical Commissioning Group or Local Authority.

Content development work is required to populate, edit and manage your local Dementia Roadmap with resources and groups that are relevant to your locality. This includes for example, information about activity and social groups, day services, lunch clubs, memory cafes, respite care services, Singing for the Brain groups etc. This also includes for example, information about local care pathways, prescribing guidelines, referral protocols etc.

We encourage you to nominate an editor or establish a local editorial team to undertake the content development work, as it is most likely to deliver an end product that is locally owned, cost-effective and sustainable in the long-term.

From our experience in supporting local teams to develop local Dementia Roadmaps, it can take an editor from two to five days of editorial input to populate the Roadmap with locally relevant content. Following this initial work an editor will need to provide ongoing editorial input to ensure that the local content is kept up to date.

Depending on local commissioning arrangements you may wish to consider commissioning a local voluntary sector agency, such as a local branch of the Alzheimer's Society or Age UK, to take on the editorial role and undertake the content development work.

We have developed a template for a business case that can be adapted to help generate stakeholder buy-in. This includes learning points from the Dementia Roadmaps developed to date. If you wish to receive the business case template please email enquiries@dementiaroadmap.info.
